

Neuroscience Personality Test: The Reveal

Who am I?

If most of your answers were blue, you are mainly interested in neurology

If most of your answers were green, you are mainly interested in psychology

If most of your answers were orange, you are mainly interested in neuroscience

Most likely you have answers in multiple colours, I have too, because we are all interested and driven by many different things. This exercise is just a way to make you think and evaluate where your drives and interests are.

something about yourself. -hearted fun, but maybe you learned

Maybe it triggered discussions with your family and friends and a bit of an internal debate about what drives you and what you want to achieve and do.
